

June 2016

After months of work the new NASPO Website is up and running. We are pleased with the capabilities, the attractive graphics and the functionality of the site. NASPO.info will make communications and dissemination of information on upcoming standards work, events, training and reports easier and more uniform. It will also allow our Members to register for events and, when there are fees, they can pay through the site.

Here are some of the key features of the website:

- Member listings
- Links to information about Members and their websites
- The ability of Members to add promotional videos or banners
- NASPO contact information
- Information on the organization, the services and products, the events and the status of standards
- Professional Development Training courses and schedule of classes
- Professionally Certified Individuals recognition (as certification is completed)
- A NASPO Calendar for upcoming events
- On-line ordering of classes, standards, literature, white papers...
- Payment of fees and dues by credit card
- Links to the NASPO Group and the NASPO Security Managers Subgroup on Linked-in

The site is very flexible and we can add new material as we go along. If you have “Events” please submit them to the Washington Office by sending them to smc@naspo.info as well as mikeo@naspo.info. For any other corrections or additional information about your company please send them to Sheila Crowley at smc@naspo.info

We hope you and your company representatives will use the NASPO Website as a tool to communicate and promote yourselves.

We thank the Members who help accomplish the design and development of the website. We would also like to thank VistaWorks for the mechanics, graphic consulting and advice they gave the organization. And finally we thank Lisa Ivey (NASPO’s new Vice-Chairperson) for leading this effort and for her hours of work to bring it to fruition.

Regards,

Timothy Brock
