

SECURITY PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT TRAINING

PDT 101 Security Awareness and Confidentiality

Course Overview

Risk awareness is a cognitive process that can be learned and applied to better protect an organization. With this training, you'll learn how a security-based thinking skill can be developed and, equally important, how you can engage your organization into applying the correct mind-set to effectively secure your systems and facilities. Through instruction and class interaction, attendees gain relevant insights and understandings based on real situations and applications.

This course will also include a comprehensive introduction to the various practices surrounding confidentiality, trade secrets, inside trading, antitrust, NSA/CDAs, rumor control, and other secrecy practices. These practices include defending information from unauthorized access, use, disclosure, disruption, modification, perusal, inspection, recording or destruction.

Training Topics:

- Criteria for a “security-based” thinking
- Concepts of Risk, Risk Management and Risk Treatments
- Concepts of Confidentiality and protecting intellectual property
- Concepts of defending information

Who Should Attend?

Risk Managers, Members of Risk Management Team, Security professionals seeking certification for their operations, Security Professionals seeking certification under the NASPO INTERNATIONAL CSP Program.

Fee and Prerequisites:

Full day course. Fee $525

Course Schedule:

See NASPO Website Events Calendar

Security Professional Development Training Series

- 🌐 PDT 101 Security Awareness and Confidentiality
- 🌐 PDT 102 Security Risk Management
- 🌐 PDT 103 Securing Electronic Data
- 🌐 PDT 104 Security Risk Treatments – Core Elements
- 🌐 PDT 105 Knowledge Assessment

The NASPO Certification Program

Requirements for certification as a Certified Security Professional, CSP.

Complete courses 101 –104

Complete Final Exam 105 with a passing grade (80%).

Advanced Courses

- 🌐 PDT 106 Train the trainer – NASPO Annual Refresher
- 🌐 PDT 203 Using Risk management as a sales technique

For More Information contact

Mike O’Neill, President
NASPO International
mikeo@naspo.info
612.281.7141

www.naspo.info/training